Concerned Persons for Adoption (CPFA) is offering a parent talk, "Navigating Birth Parent Relationships" via Zoom on Friday, January 31, 8:00-9:30 pm, EST.

Navigating relationships with your child's birth parents can be complicated and can be one of the hardest parts about being an adoptive parent. This talk will explore why connections and relationships with birth parents are so meaningful and beneficial to your child's well-being. We will discuss ways to search, encourage and support the relationship between your child and their birth parents and ways to prepare and respond to challenges that may arise.

Presented by Rebecca Gallese, LCSW along with the NJ Adoption Resource Clearing House, the speaker will also lead an insightful discussion on tips on to search for birth parents, ideas on what to do if your child does their own search on social media and share support that may be helpful.

Don't miss this opportunity to listen, ask questions, and share your thoughts, concerns, and more with our guest expert and experienced adoptive parents.

CPFA offers great opportunities to network with other adoptive/pre-adoptive parents. CPFA is a volunteer organization working to support those who wish to adopt and provides educational and networking resources to those who have adopted. Membership is encouraged and is open to anyone concerned with adoption.
